WITHDRAWAL OF WAGE DEPOSIT CONSENT

To: Example Employer
From: Robin Example
Notice date: 2026-11-03

I withdraw consent to future wage credits under all my existing wage deposit instructions with this employer. I am giving notice now. Please record receipt and confirm when the applicable agreement and payment method will change.

My current information is that the affected deposit has not yet been transmitted. Please check with payroll and confirm the change.

I request a paper check if available under the applicable wage-payment rules.

Please acknowledge receipt promptly, identify any affected entry already sent, and confirm the payment method for my next payday. This notice does not waive my right to timely payment of earned wages or give anyone permission to debit my account. It does not require me to leave an old or compromised account open.

Payroll card or other electronic-transfer agreement. Under Oregon Revised Statutes §652.110(5)–(7), the parties must agree using the language the employer principally uses with this employee. Subsection (5) provides for an initial withdrawal of the full net wages at no cost or a different payment method at no cost. Oregon BOLI's employer guidance describes both safeguards. This English-language builder issues a card election only when English is the employer's principal language with this employee and the user records both access options. Otherwise use the employer's verified terms in the applicable language. Do not treat the employee's choice of a prepaid account alone as agreement to the employer's payroll-card program.
